Q. two Soviet barges were manned with Soviet naval personnel. Pipe lines were being connected to these barges which were moored adjacent to the fourth group of tanks. The barges were fully loaded judging from the draft marking.

25X1

R. one Soviet barge

25X1

was moored to (See e below)

25X1

S. a barge similar to the one described under IVp; the barge was moored to the embankment slightly to the south of the river tank area

two barges similar to the one described under IVp, moored parallel to each other and slightly to the south of the barge in IVs

u.

an "DROP" tank car on the rail siding south of the area; the car bore the inscription "Spiritus" 3 v.

a large crane, apparently not in use, installed north of (See w below)

w.

a small railroad engine shed which appeared not to be in use.

25X1 x. A Werkschutz sentry armed with a Russian carbine patrolled the Danube embankment of the installation.

25X1 2. Comment. The barge [redacted] had previously been seen in the basin next to Lobau (Vienna) refinery.

25X1 3. Comment. The inscription "Spiritus" on a tank car (see IV u) could mean that high octane gasoline is being processed at the refinery.
